In Feb 2010, Marcia Lowry graciously offered to do some healing work with me at a time when I was overly stressed, anxious, and tired.

I met Marcia because I almost hit her with my car in the parking lot. We happen to work on the same floor at HealthPartners and when I saw her the next day I apologized profusely. She calmly told me that she had not even noticed. She then offered to do some healing energy work with me to help with the stress. I immediately sensed that she was an intuitive woman and set up a time to have her work on me. We only met once. I sensed a warm, peaceful spirit emanating from her that enveloped me. I sensed that something shifted in me soon after our session. I relaxed easily in her presence and was not conscious of what Marcia was doing. Tension left and my extreme anxiety was decreased for a period of time. She told me about classes that might help me, but due to location, family and job commitments, I never made the effort to attend. I now attend a Qigong practice group Marcia started here at HealthPartners.

I wish Marcia all the best on her quest to become a healing practitioner. She is gifted and is a great asset to the world.
